

Shaniece is a Personal Development Coach who helps others identify, activate, and maximize their gifts and strengths. She gives strategies for developing personally, in business, and in ministry. As a coach, she considers herself an “Activation Specialists,” in which she teaches strategies that assist people in discovering and activating their interest, developing a career around their interest, and turning that into income.

She brings these strategies to life through fourteen years of success in direct selling, coaching, and mentoring. Her successful experiences have provided her with both the confidence and knowledge to teach audiences across the United States how to move from a place of survival, to a place of thriving by turning thoughts into actions.

Shaniece graduated from The Ohio State University in the Max Fisher College of Business in 2004, which is ranked as the 21st in the top business schools in the nation. Shaniece’s degree is in Business Administration, specializing in Marketing and Transportation and Logistics. Shaniece worked in Corporate America in Pharmaceutical Sales for two years until she decided to step out on faith and become a fulltime entrepreneur, using her gift as a teacher and developer to coach people to success.

In 2015, Shaniece received two national awards for the exceptional growth of her business. She works with customers and consultants from coast to coast. Her exemplary coaching abilities have provided a pathway to leadership for many women. These leaders are now flourishing and leading others. They have the opportunity to earn unlimited income, to build an amazing empire, and to strategically position themselves for greatness.

Shaniece M. Wise holds the title of Mother, Entrepreneur, Personal Development Coach, Motivational Speaker, and Author. She believed that after graduating from the Ohio State University Fisher College of Business with two business degrees, that corporate America was her only option. After two years of being unhappy, unmotivated, and unfulfilled in her career as a Pharmaceutical Distributor, she happily closed the door on corporate America and went after her dreams.

Fourteen years ago, Shaniece stepped into her dream and became a fulltime business owner with one of the largest direct selling companies in the United States. Over the last fourteen years, she has traveled all around the United States teaching and coaching on self-motivation, growth and development, and how to live with expectation.

Shaniece and her organization in one year sold over $500,000 in retail sales. This was the year she got married, received national awards, and was at the peak of her game; never losing and always winning . . . until the unthinkable happened. Never in her wildest dreams did Shaniece think she would go through a divorce after two years of marriage, only to become a single mother and alone. In that moment she had to actually use the skills and techniques she was teaching others for herself. Her teaching and developing became her testimony. She had to learn how to encourage herself, bounce back, get out of debt, love again, and move past the pain of regret. She had to learn how to self-motivate, be a business woman, and be a mother. She had to learn time and emotional management on an entirely new level.

Shaniece has had to adapt to change and learn to move when God says move. She is currently transitioning from career to purpose. Becoming a Personal Development Coach, Motivational Speaker, and Author has allowed her to serve the universe with her gifts, which are empowering and developing.

May 2016, Shaniece wrote and published a workbook to accompany her workshop with the same title, Activating Your Gifts. She teaches workshops all over the United States on how to activate your gifts and accept your authentic self. In this workshop, she teaches techniques on how to identify in life what makes you happy, what your true purpose is, and how you can serve others with your gifts and talents. She teaches you how to motivate yourself, leave the past in the past, and create an abundant life.

There are activities in the book that teaches how to develop personally so your professional life can thrive. She also published an activation activity CD titled “Working On You.” This CD has activities that complement the workbook. It involves activities that teach self-empowerment, aids in the development of time management skills, and focusing on being the 360 degree person God designed you to be.

In 2016, Shaniece was featured in Speak Woman magazine. Shaniece believes anything is possible, and her favorite quote that she wrote is “Unstoppable is not what you do, it is who you are.”
